

Shaving for the cancer cause

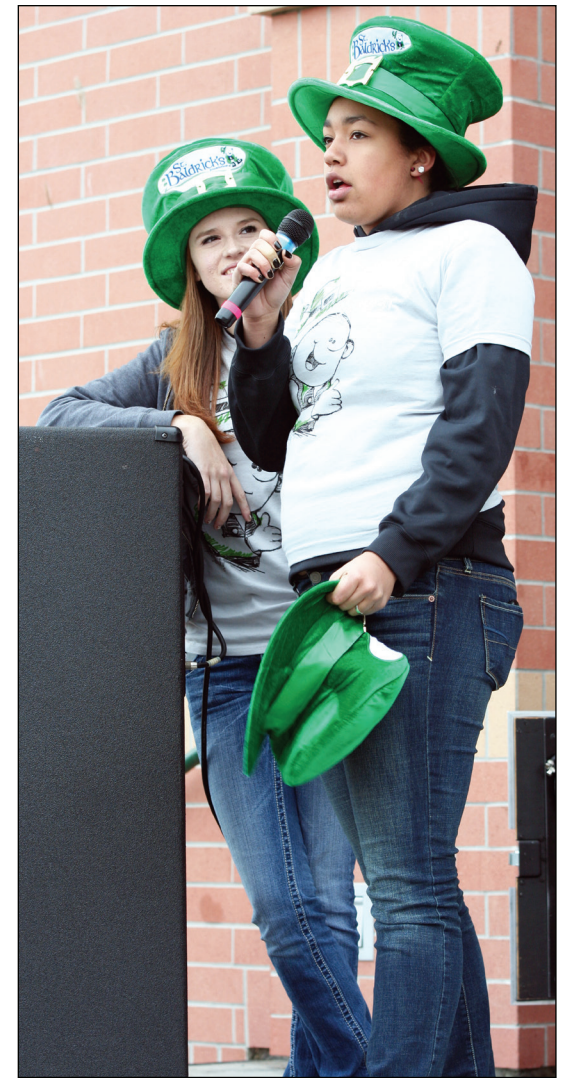

GBHS students and staff participate in the third annual St. Baldrick's charity event

♦Freshman Mattie Montoya, right, laughs while looking out at the crowd as she holds her cut of hair. Far above, junior Paul Zajac looks down as his hairdresser is about to shave off the hair near his neck. Far right, juniors Chanelle Canfield and Lauren Davis encourage the crowd to donate money to the St. Baldrick's Foundation. Assistant principal, Brian McNulty, below, tilts his head back in laughter as the top of his head is being shaved. Below right, teacher Darrin Page's shaved hair flies off his head and onto his smock. Mattie Montoya, bottom right, smiles in astonishment after her ponytail is cut off and what is left of her hair is about to be shaved.
