

RUSH REPEAT

ASB creates unprecedented second Club Rush in second semester

1: Near the amphitheatre, Kevin Camaya plays ping pong at a table set up by the club members to attract students to Ping Pong club on Jan. 25. In its second year, the club expanded its membership to 15 members. 2: At the Home Improvement booth, Alex Aguirre and Jaime Munoz inform Adriana Burma about their club. This second Club Rush was planned to take place in the cafeteria but was relocated outdoors at the last minute. 3: At the Science Olympiad booth, Andrew Siwabessy plays with a bubble machine to attract potential members to Science Olympiad before their next competition. They were trying to recruit new members for the Regional Competition at Sacramento State. The team took Second Place in Technical Problem Solving, Third Place in Optics and Fourth Place in Anatomy and Physiology and Protein Modeling. 4: Robotics members promote their club by operating and displaying the robots they had been working on. The club's primary focus was preparing the robot to meet required specifications for the Sacramento Regional Competition at UC Davis.

it's why I joined AUSTIN WITTICK

"I joined CSF because it looks good on college applications, and it is a good way to help the community. We do a lot of gathering donations. For example, (we gathered donations like) clothes for cancer and canned foods. Everybody in the club loves helping people. We have 99 people in the club. For big projects, we split into different groups, like advertising groups, counting groups and collecting groups. There are equal members in each class. Every once in a while, we separate freshmen and sophomores from juniors and seniors."

CSF

Kyra Birks

"Roots and Shoots cleaned up the planter box in the back of the school."

Jose Medina

"Aditya Nirgun and I didn't go to a single meeting after club picture day. It was kinda funny, but I wouldn't do it again."

Amanda Bray

"CSF is an amazing club because it helps give back to the community, and especially to our school, in a variety of ways."

Joseph Kiefer

"We went to our neighborhood behind Whitney to collect cans for our canned food drive."

Carly Anderson

"I'm in Roots and Shoots because I like plants and helping the community. My favorite plant is a sunflower."

99 MEMBERS IN CSF

"The group is better and bigger, which has a bigger impact on community service. Having more members allows us to split up and get more accomplished. There are more people in the club because there are bigger community service projects."
