Students in the Stage Tech class paint a door and a window onto pieces of plywood, a prop later used in the Fall Play. The Stage Tech Class consists of eight crews, each in charge of different aspects of production. The Stage Tech crews all contribute to each of Gunn's dramatic productions. Students learn painting and construction skills; the basics of lighting and sound; costume and makeup; and public relations and management of the stage. The head of the Paint Crew, Nina Rajwar (12) shares her experience in stage tech. "As one of the co-heads of the paint crew, it's up to us to decide on colors and designs — most times it works, sometimes it doesn't, and that's all right," Rajwar said. "It's an awesome way to keep painting and doing art during the school year, especially because I normally have such limited free time to just sit back and be creative."
