

WHAT WAS I MADE FOR?

It may look like they had it all figured out, but life was full of uncertainty, and 24 hours in the day was not enough time to meet every expectation.

Some decisions came naturally, but other parts of students' lives seemed just to happen. Motivation wavered, intentions differed, but the light at the end of the tunnel waited in the distance, if only they could hang on — and they really, really wanted to.

Life felt like one big question mark as they wondered, "How am I supposed to know everything? Am I doing it right? Is this my path?"
